With Huntington disease, the future holds no surprises.

Huntington Disease (HD) is a brain disorder that's inevitably fatal and completely incurable. Passed through generations, every child born to a parent with Huntington's has a 50% chance of sharing the same fate.

HD strikes in the prime of life. Symptoms include uncontrollable movements, depression, loss of ability to recall information and difficulty with decision making. From there, it gets worse. The disease eventually leads to incapacitation before it ultimately leads to death.

But there is new reason for hope. In 2006, for the first time in 135 years of study, Canadian researchers successfully cured HD in a mouse.

We've never been closer to eliminating this disease. All we need is your support to take the final step. The next dollar donated truly could be the difference. Will it be yours?
